

Eastern Washington University: Indian Child Welfare Syllabus

This syllabus outlines a course provides an introduction to Indian Child Welfare with an emphasis on understanding legal, historical, and cultural issues applying to work with American Indian and Alaskan Native youth. This course emphasizes Indian Child Welfare issues in the Pacific Northwest (Washington, Idaho, Oregon and Montana).

<http://ncwwi.org/files/SOWK560indiancw.pdf>

Northeastern State University Indian Child Welfare Workshop

This syllabus outlines a course designed to provide students with a clear understanding and basic applicability of the Indian Child Welfare Act in child welfare work. (2016)

https://ncwwi.org/files/475I_-_Indian_Child_Welfare__Syllabus_-_K__Whitworth.docx

Northeastern State University: Sequoyah Seminar Series - Indigenous Leadership Seminar

This syllabus outlines a course designed to assist students in gaining foundational knowledge on the concepts of indigenous leadership as well as the theory and application of cultural resilience with indigenous populations. (2011)

https://ncwwi.org/files/SOWK_475I_Indigenous_LeadershipI.doc

University of California, Berkeley: Child Welfare Law and Policy Syllabus

This syllabus outlines a course designed provide understanding of these and child welfare issues through a critical analysis of child welfare policies, laws and practice to include federal statutes related The Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA).

https://ncwwi.org/files/CHILD_WELFARE_LAW_AND_POLICY_SYLLABUS.docx

University of Minnesota Duluth Department of Social Work: Child Welfare and the Law

This syllabus outlines a course that provides an overview of the federal, state, and tribal laws, policies, and court processes regulating child welfare practice. It will lead practitioners from initial intake through the court process; it will highlight practice and policy issues from a cultural and structural perspective.

https://ncwwi.org/files/SW_5032_CW__Law_Fall_18_Snyder.doc

University of Minnesota School of Social Work Syllabus: Social Work in Child Welfare

This syllabus outlines a course designed provides depth and breadth in knowledge and skill acquisition for advanced social work student in their work in public, private, and tribal child welfare related to assessment of strengths and risks and developing appropriate plans that secure child safety and well-being and promote family resources.

http://ncwwi.org/files/SW8363_FC_ChildWelfare.pdf