Kathi Elliott, DNP, MSW, CRNP, is the Executive Director of Gwen’s Girls, Inc., a community-based, nonprofit organization in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, whose mission is to empower girls and young women to have productive lives through exposure to holistic, gender-specific programs, education, and experiences. She has a passion to research and deliver holistic care that is evidence-based and strengthens girls, their families, and the wider community. She holds a Doctor of Nursing Practice degree from Chatham University and master’s degrees in Nursing and Social Work from the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Elliott currently serves on the Board of Trustees at Chatham University, as well as Robert Morris University’s Sociology/Criminal Justice Advisory Board and Slippery Rock University’s Criminology Advisory Board. She is the proud mother of two adult children.

Angela Y. Steele, MSW, began her career in child welfare as a Child Welfare Education for Baccalaureate (CWEB) intern in 2001. After completing a bachelor of arts in Social Work (BASW) at the University of Pittsburgh in 2002, Angela went on to 13 years in direct service as a child welfare caseworker, holding various casework positions. Angela participated in the Child Welfare Education for Leadership program, graduating from the University of Pittsburgh with an MSW in 2006. Angela uses her child welfare and data analysis background in her role as Diversity and Inclusion Officer for Allegheny County Children, Youth, and Family Services. Her areas of focus include racial equity, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression (SOGIE), and work with the county’s immigrant and internationals population.
